Where is Da Lat ? ( 135 km West of Nha Trang )

The hill town of Da Lat has long been the most popular location in the region for getaway holidays since French colonial times. Many people call it 'Le Petit Paris' and the town even features a mini-replica Eiffel Tower in its centre!

Situated on a plateau 1,500 metres above sea level, this retreat town offers a good change of atmosphere with a refreshingly cool climate while other cities in Vietnam can be very hot and humid especially during summer.

How to Get to Da Lat

1. Flights from Vietnam's major cities – Hanoi & Ho Chi Minh City– regularly arrive in Lien Khuong airport \(Code: DLI\) (1 hr. from Saigon / 2 hr. from Hanoi )

2. From Nha Trang By bus (135 km ,3.5 Hours)

Da Lat Weather

Da Lat has two distinctive seasons each year. The dry season takes place between November and March, while rainy weather lasts from April to October.

On average, temperatures are highest in May (30°C - 32°C) and lowest in January (20°C - 23°C).

Rainy Season in Da Lat

If you're travelling to Da Lat during the rainy season, you will benefit from cheaper rates and fewer tourists. Despite the occasional showers and cold weather, you can still explore the town's many French villas, Buddhist shrines, and quirky landmarks such as Crazy House. We highly recommend packing some long-sleeved clothing as night-time temperatures tend to hover at around 10°C.

Best Time to Come to Da Lat

The best time to visit Da Lat is between December and March when you can see its famous flower gardens in full bloom.

Temperatures at this time of the year are ideal for outdoor activities such as hiking, swimming, and walking.

Da Lat also hosts its biannual flower festival during this time, where you can enjoy vibrant parades, exhibitions and workshops, as well as the colourful flowers that surround Xuan Huong Lake.

What you should take note :

Trousers and jumpers are needed if visiting Dalat from November to around March as temperatures hover at about 10°C.

Why you should visit Dalat?

Dalat is famous for its wide variety of flowers, vegetables and fruit from its surrounding farmlands as well as countless nature sites; its beautiful landscape, evergreen forests and minority villages.

The area's main sources of income are from agriculture and the tourism industry but the city is also very proud of being an education centre that produces multi-field professionals each year including doctors and architects (Dalat University alone has more than 13,000 students).

Good about Da Lat:

Beautiful French villas and gardens

Very quiet and laidback

Cool climate all year long

Good range of high-end, mid-range and budget hotels

Plenty of natural landscapes

Farm experience

Bad about Da Lat:

- Nightlife is very limited
- Many places of interest require transport to reach
- No modern shopping malls
